Promoting Mental Health & Well Being

You face some of the most serious and frustrating hurdles in the Health and Human Services industry. You're tasked with providing the best possible care, while also managing strict confidentiality guidelines, tracking services, and handling the additional complexities of substance abuse, eating disorders, and suicide intervention. These challenges, combined with the need to improve success rates, can hamper your efforts as you work to promote mental health.

Now there's a simpler way to manage compliance, track utilization and funding, and share important data so your clients can receive the services they need. With CaseWorthy's web-based application, all utilization, billing, and other information is securely collected and stored in a central database, where your staff can easily access it.

Administer a variety of assessments – level of care, mental health and substance abuse screenings, child abuse risk, and more. Create Behavior Support Plans (BSPs) as individual as the clients you serve. Track and report on goals, attendance, and program utilization. Monitor medication dispensing and set up notifications when it's time for a refill.

Plus, you can easily run any number of operational, compliance, and program kpi reports. Generate service reports with time records or monitor enrollment outcomes. You can also create ad hoc and customized reports to fit your needs.
